

“Who am I?” I am [REDACTED] from Yemen I like my job am working in store.

I chose to reflect my identity through video because I want show people how they think about Yemen.

In my art piece, it shows a video about nationality

This represents my nationality this connects to my personal life because this video is about how I lived in Yemen.

It also connects to bigger issues, like the bigger issues it that some people think that Yemen is the most poorest country and it is not.

I think why people are treated this way because some people are vast, this mean people makes bad videos about the country so people who watch will treat them bad.

I chose to represent this part of my identity in this way because I want let people see how Yemen is good.

In my art piece, it shows religion this connects to my personal life because I was born I am muslim man.

It also connects to bigger issues, like stereotype people view that my religion terrorist most of them believe that my religion is not a terrorist.

I think people are treated this way because they believe different religion.

I chows to represent this part of my identity in this way because I want people to know that my religion is not bad peaceful.

In my art piece, it shows a man and female this represents my gender this connect to my personal life because I was born as male.

It also connects to bigger issues, like dominant female believe not male are strong and they are weak.

I chose to represent this part of my identity me because society believe that am representing, like religion gender and nationality
